PILI KA MO‘O

SYNOPSIS

DETAILED SYNOPSIS
The Fukumitsu ‘Ohana (family) of Hakipu'u are Native Hawaiian taro farmers, keepers of this generational practice. While much of O'ahu has become urbanized, Hakipu'u remains a kīpuka (oasis) of traditional knowledge where great chiefs once resided and their bones still remain. The Fukumitsus are tossed into a world of complex real estate and judicial proceedings when nearby Kualoa Ranch, a large settler-owned corporation, destroys their familial burials to make way for continued development plans.

LOGLINE
A Native Hawaiian taro farming family is drawn into a logistically and emotionally complex quest to preserve their ancestral land.

TITLE STYLE GUIDE

ABOUT THE FILMMAKERS

ABOUT JUSTYN AH CHONG (DIRECTOR)
Justyn Ah Chong (Kānaka Maoli) is an award-winning Native Hawaiian filmmaker from O'ahu, Hawai'i. After graduating from USC’s School of Cinematic Arts in 2011, Justyn worked as a director, cinematographer and editor at ‘Ōiwi Television Network, Hawai'i's premiere Indigenous broadcast station. His acclaimed film “Down on the Sidewalk In Waikiki” premiered at Māoriland Film Festival in New Zealand, winning the People's Choice Award for Best Short Drama. The film has screened at festivals around the world, including the imagineNATIVE Film Festival in Toronto, the Los Angeles Asian Pacific Film Festival, and the 307 Film Festival in Wyoming, where it won Best of Fest. Justyn is producing two short narrative films, “Hawaiian Soul” and “E Malama Pono Willy Boy,” and is developing a feature-length documentary, “Bury Me Green.” He’s a 2020 Nia Tero 4th World Media Lab fellow and continues to share culturally-inspired, place-based stories through his production company, Olonā Media.

ABOUT MALIA AKUTAGAWA (ASSOCIATE PRODUCER)
Malia Akutagawa is an Associate Professor of Law and Hawaiian Studies with both the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa’s Hawai‘inuiākea School of Hawaiian Knowledge – Kamakahōkūkalani Center for Hawaiian Studies and the William S. Richardson School of Law. Malia’s scholarship includes State and federal laws protecting iwi kūpuna (Native ancestral burials), preserving cultural and historic sites, and engaging Native communities and stakeholders in consultation on these matters. She is particularly interested in the integration of Native, Indigenous Hawaiian methodologies, customary law, and governance principles founded by the ancient ‘Aha Kiole (People’s Councils) and incorporated into law under the Statewide ‘Aha Moku Advisory Committee (AMAC).

ARTISTS STATEMENT from Justyn and Malia
It seems that now more than ever, Native Hawaiian burials are being dug up and ancestral remains disturbed for the sake of continued “development,” “progress,” and economic gain here in the occupied Hawaiian Kingdom. By highlighting the Fukumitsu family and their ongoing struggle to protect their ‘iwi kūpuna (family burials), we hope to shed light on the reciprocal relationship Native Hawaiians maintain with their family beyond the veil, allowing others to see that for us it isn't simply old bones in the ground but rather treasures worth protecting at all costs.
PRODUCTION NOTES

Pili Ka Mo‘o (We Will Walk the Trail of our Ancestors) was filmed in the occupied Kingdom of Hawai‘i.

The film was produced as part of Season 1 of the Reciprocity Project - a collaborative multimedia platform and short film series made in partnership with Indigenous storytellers and their communities worldwide produced by Nia Tero and Upstander Project in association with REI Co-op Studios. Produced by Taylor Hensel, Adam Mazo, Kavita Pillay, and Tracy Rector.

ABOUT RECIPROCITY PROJECT
Facing a climate crisis, the Reciprocity Project embraces Indigenous value systems that have bolstered the Earth, which was in balance until the modern industrial age. This short film series and multimedia platform, made in partnership with Indigenous storytellers and their communities worldwide, invites learning from time-honored and current Indigenous ways of being. PRESS & ACCLAIM

“To unearth our kupuna in the ground is like the final eviction,” a quote from the film, lingers in my mind as a fellow Native Hawaiian. It is a reminder that the spiritual war featured in PILI KA MO‘O clearly ties back to the Colonization of Hawai’i and the dark side of Capitalism.”

-Ciara Lacy

Pili Ka Moʻo has screened at film festival around the globe, including Hawai’i International Film Festival, Skábmagovat Indigenous Peoples’ Film Festival, Big Sky Documentary Film Festival, Durango Independent Film Festival, Cartagena International Film Festival, Environmental Film Festival in The Nation’s Capital, Seattle International Film Festival, Riverside International Film Festival, Independent Film Festival Boston, CAAMfest, Mountainfilm, Folklife Festival, Wairoa Māori Film Festival, deadCenter Film Festival, Māoriland Film Festival, Maui Film Festival, BlackStar Film Festival, The International First Peoples Festival Présence Autochtone, Regina International Film Festival and Awards, DC Asian Pacific American Film Festival, Asian American International Film Festival, Asinabka Film & Media Arts Festival, 307 International Film Festival, Local Sightings Film Festival, Nuuk International Film Festival, Edmonton International Film Festival, Woodstock Film Festival, and imagineNATIVE Film and Media Festival.
